Memorial Tree Brings Life Where Death Had Occurred

by James Giese

Approximately 60 family members, friends, city officials and concerned citizens gathered at the corner of Hanover Parkway and Mandan Road on a beautiful autumn Saturday morning to dedicate a maple tree and plaque to the memory of Carlton F. (C.J.) Brown, II, the youth who was struck down in that area and died of a gunshot wound on May 13. Two other youths were charged with murder in that incident.

The October 29 ceremony consisted of remarks by Greenbelt's Mayor Antoinette Bram and other councilmembers, by C.J.'s parents, Carlton F. and Judy Brown, and by other family members and others. It ended with the group joining hands in prayer to sing "Amazing Grace."

Although a sad occasion, Bram remarked, she was thankful because she and the others would have memories, and the planting of the tree would help to reinvigorate those memories. C.J.'s mother noted that since her son's death, the corner at which the tree was planted had meant, for her, death. "Now I'll pass this corner and think of my son's life," she said.

C.J.'s father urged community involvement. He had seen to it that his children were involved.

Community involvement was needed to see that what happened with C.J. doesn't happen again. "When you see trouble, it's time to talk about it," he urged the many youths present, teammates of C.J. in the Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club.

Others addressed special remarks to the young people as well. Councilmember Edward Putens urged them not to forget and to care for the tree and pull any weeds around it. "This tree represents life" he said. Councilmember J. Davis urged that C.J.'s memory inspire the young people to do good things in his honor and to make sure that what happened doesn't happen again in Greenbelt.

Bram asked the youths to please stay away from guns. See MEMORIAL, page 11

A. Scott Does Well Here; Wins County Council Seat

by Mary Lou Williamson

On Election Day 1994 Greenbelters chose to buck the national trend, along with most other Marylanders, to reelect incumbent Democrats. In two open races, Republicans fared better. Although Greenbelters preferred G. Frederick Robinson for the seat on the County Council, Republican Audrey Scott was the winner in District 4. In the battle for governor Parris Glendening was still locked in a head-to-head race with his Republican opponent Ellen Sauerbrey on Wednesday morning. (See separate story.) Glendening's 68.7 percent tally in Greenbelt was significantly below the 75% garnered four years ago by the Democratic candidate for governor.

Scott, who ran a campaign designed to win favor with Democrats, polled 44.8% in Greenbelt. Four years ago the Democratic incumbent Richard Castaldi took 30.4% in Greenbelt. Scott won her seat with 54% of the vote across District 4.

U.S. Races

Top vote getter again was U. S. Representative Steny H. Hoyer, Democrat, with 3,480 votes or 75.1% in Greenbelt.

While Hoyer's total vote exceeded that of four years ago, his percentage dropped by 4.6 points. Hoyer won by 59% in the 5th Congressional District.

Incumbent Paul S. Sarbanes, Democrat, was only slightly behind Hoyer with a total of 3,328 votes or 73%. He, too, won his race in Maryland by 59%.

Greenbelt's total vote of 4,801 showed a 54.8% turnout an improvement of 6.4% over the 1990

Governor's Race Is Dead Heat

At 12:50 Wednesday morning, Republican Ellen Sauerbrey and Democrat Parris Glendening both declared victory. With 100% of Maryland's precincts reporting, Glendening had taken the lead by only 6,195 votes.

Both are pinning their hopes on gaining the major share of the 50,000 absentee ballots that would send them to the Governor's Mansion for four years. Sauerbrey also said that "... every vote throughout the state will be challenged."

The absentee ballot count will be announced today, certification of the election results occurs next Monday. Reportedly, any alleged voting irregularities will be investigated later.

County Races

Greenbelters gave County Executive candidate Wayne Curry 63.5%, slightly below his 67%

Disappointing Campaign Election

Throughout the country, last Tuesday's election was one of the roughest and nastiest. Candidates concentrated on finding fault with their opponents. Personalities were often more important than issues, ideas and ideals.

On the Greenbelt scene the conduct of the candidates tended to be better. However, we were disappointed to see a variety of improper activities take place. Throughout Greenbelt, many campaign signs were illegally placed on public rights-of-way. Numerous signs for one candidate were tacked up on utility poles, an act prohibited by law. Another local candidate published an ad that misrepresented and distorted the views of the candidate's opponent.

We would like to think that candidates for elected office have higher standards. The actions cited above reflect poorly upon the candidates involved. As far as we are concerned, the candidates who did or allowed such acts hurt their candidacies. We believe other Greenbelters share our displeasure. Future candidates, please take note.

Guess which way you're supposed to park. Park against traffic? Now that traffic is two way in the Co-op parking lot, park with traffic in the parallel park area directly across from the Co-op entrance by facing in the direction of the apartment buildings.

Lack of Respect

As a resident of Greenbelt, a parent and president of the Greenbelt Elementary PTA, I am ashamed of some "kids" in Greenbelt. Every day when I bring my child to school, I see the damage these kids do. They rollerblade, run or ride their bikes through the flowers and bushes that are planted around the school, destroying them.

The parents, teachers and children worked extra hard planting, weeding and mulching the flowers and bushes this fall. It doesn't seem fair that their hard work is being destroyed by kids that have such a lack of respect for their school.

It's hard to explain to a four-year-old why kids would do this to something that belongs to everyone. Please, isn't there a better place to "play" than in the flowers?

Scouting for Food

Cub Pack 202 and Boy Scout Troop 746 will be conducting a canned food drive. On Saturday, November 12, plastic "Scouting For Food" bags will be passed out in Greenbelt.

Please place non-perishable food items in the bags and place on the front porch in easy sight on Saturday, November 19.

With everyone's help, the Scouts can top the 2000 pounds of food collected last year. Greenbelt's support will be appreciated.

win in the county. Prince Georges' new States Attorney will be Democrat Jack Johnson. Incumbent judges, clerk of the court, register of wills, judges of the orphans court and sheriff were all returned to office.

School Board

In a no-contest election, Greenbelter Suzanne Plogman was returned to the school board to represent District 2 for another four-year term.

State House

In the state races, Senator Leo E. Green coasted to an easy victory with no Republican opponent.

The three Democrats running for the House of Delegates finished handily ahead of three Republican challengers. In Greenbelt Joan Pitkin topped her fellow incumbents with 3,133 votes. Mary Conroy was close behind with 3,087, and Jim Hubbard received 2,870. Conroy won over Pitkin by a small margin in the District 23 tally. Theodore Henderson, the top Republican in Greenbelt had less than half of Hubbard's vote. The other two Republicans, D. Alfred Schauer and Paul Tucker were very close to Henderson.

Suspicious Fire Damages School

by David Morse

A fire of suspicious origin in a classroom at St. Hugh's School brought out 7 fire companies and over 50 firefighters, said county fire department spokesman Pete Piringer. The fire, which began early Wednesday morning on November 9, was quickly extinguished and caused little damage, he said. Investigation into the cause of the fire is continuing, but it was "probably set," said Piringer.

St. Hugh's principal Philip Robey said that the smoldering fire was discovered by two teachers shortly after 7 a.m. a window had been broken, he said supporting the possibility of arson. Classes were canceled for the day, and will resume Thursday after smoke damage to the front part of the building is cleaned up, he added.

The school is located at 145 Crescent Rd.

Helene Mayock

Helene M. Mayock of Greenbelt died on November 2. She was a 1947 graduate of Trinity College, Washington, D.C. and received her M.S.W. from Howard University in 1963.

For several years she worked as an adoption social worker with the Family Services Agency and later served as a Psychiatric Social Worker with Chestnut Lodge Hospital in Rockville from which she retired in 1988.

Mrs. Mayock moved to Greenbelt with her family in 1953 and in those early years was busily involved with the PTA, St. Hughs, the Swim Team and Little League Baseball. Later she served as a Greenbelt Museum guide and board member. She enjoyed her extensive travels throughout the world. Services were held at Gasch's Funeral Home. Interment was in the Greenbelt Cemetery.

Survivors include her sons James P. (Jay) of Greenbelt and Patrick of Oxford, Md. She is also survived by her daughter-in-law, Shana, and grandsons Adam, Will and Beau also of Oxford, Md.

In Memoriam

Helene Mayock was one of a select group of people very active in the Friends of the Greenbelt Museum. It so happens that she was tour guide there during my first visit early in 1988: she later remembered my impression as "very enthusiastic." Helene always got the job done. She would be out there at flea markets, helping out, even when she was bothered by persistent coughing and other difficulties. Later on when she could no longer get out because of health problems, she still worked the phones as volunteer coordinator for scheduling people in Museum activities (always a challenging task).

Helene was pleasant to work with. Quiet and thoughtful, with a slight New England accent, she enjoyed life and people and activities. I feel grateful to have known, and to have learned from Helene during my times at our Museum.

Council Deadlocks on a Proposal To Change City Recycling Center

by Diane Oberg

After a lengthy discussion, the Greenbelt City Council took no action at its October 24 regular meeting on a proposal to change the city's drop-off recycling center. Council also heard a report on a new city program at a local high school, heard of proposed changes at the city cemetery, and again increased expenditures for the community center roof.

Recycling Center

In the absence of Councilmember Edward Putens, council deadlocked in a 2-2 tie over the Recycling Advisory Committee's recommendation that cans, bottles, and plastics no longer be collected at the drop-off recycling center. The issue will be examined again in December.

The committee recommended the change to, in the words of member Leonie Penney, "maximize the effectiveness of the available recycling dollars." Contrary to popular opinion, recycling does not pay for itself. The city must pay each time the containers are emptied. Committee Chair Kate Brett pointed out that the "comingled" bin, for cans and glass and plastic bottles, fills up first. In addition, all residents now have some form of residential recycling program—either curbside collection by the county or an apartment recycling program.

Eliminating the comingled from the drop off center would allow more room for collecting materials not collected in residential programs and reduce the number of times the bins must be emptied. City Manager Daniel Hobbs cited an estimate of $2,000 for the potential savings. However, Recycling Coordinator Tracy Vincent doubted the city would save that much.

Vincent also noted that non-recyclable materials are being put in the bins. Both she and Public Works Director Carl Hirsch attributed these contaminants to nonresidents. Hirsch also felt that nonresidents were responsible for dumping bulky trash items at the center. Greenbelters, he said, are more environmentally conscious than that. The committee estimates that at least one third of center users are nonresidents.

Mayor Antoinette Bram and Councilmember Rodney Roberts argued that the potential savings were too small to risk turning off citizens from recycling. We need every way possible, Roberts said, for citizens to recycle. Bram preferred a more staged approach of first contacting community associations for comments before implementing the change.

Councilmembers Thomas White and Judith Davis supported the proposed change. White was convinced he said, by reports from Hirsch and Vincent that nonresidents were putting non-recyclable materials in the bins.

Davis noted that everyone in the county now has access to a recycling program so that there is "no valid excuse" for outsiders to leave comingled items at the drop-off. No one proposed making the change before January 1, to allow people to drop off the containers from holiday beverages. This would allow adequate time to educate residents Davis felt.

Penney also objected to this newspaper's editorial, which she charged ran "at the twelfth hour." The committee published two letters in the News Review and conducted a Labor Day survey to inform citizens that they were considering this change. Most of those surveyed, said Brett, supported the change.

Penney told council and the cable cameras that residents with little storage space can call 474-8308 to have a small recycling pail delivered for free. She said that every ton of beverage containers collected through the recycling center costs the city $40. Every ton collected through residential programs, Penney argued, costs the city "zilch."

School Officer

Corporal David Buerger, Greenbelt's School Resource Officer, described his activities in and around Eleanor Roosevelt High School. Council authorized this new position following the murder of a resident youth near the school last year.

Buerger noted that he is starting to know many of the 2,800 students at the school. When students are arriving and leaving, Buerger focuses on the parking lots and the surrounding neighborhoods to reduce both the number of students leaving the school and the number of nonstudents coming onto school property.

His in-school duties include responding to calls on the school system radio, and patrolling hallways during class breaks. He works closely, he said, with the two school security officers.

Council members Judith Davis and Rodney Roberts passed along praise they had received from neighboring residents and members of the Youth Advisory Board. Buerger told Davis that he intends to go to other Greenbelt schools, but so far has only been to Greenbelt Middle School and to Roosevelt. Reaction from students has been mixed, he said, with some appreciating his presence and others seeing no need for an officer in the school.

City Cemetery

Council referred a proposal for beautification of the city cemetery to the Parks and Recreation Advisory Board following a presentation by Horticulturist Bill Phelan. Phelan confessed that he thinks it is "excellent the way it is," but noted that others would like to see improvements.

Phelan described the site as an open clearing on top of the hill in the woods. He opposed putting in too many floral displays in the grassy section. The plan calls for creating two raised stone flower beds along the entrance road and for planting crabapples and a hedgerow of Leyland Cypress on the north side of the property. The wooded area would be cleared somewhat by removing undergrowth and low limbs.

The proposal calls for black metal picket fencing and gate, benches and some plantings. A memorial marker would be placed at the Turner family gravesite and a wooden sign at the entrance. Gravel would be added to the paths where needed.

The total estimated cost of these improvements is $15,200. The funds would come from the accumulated interest from the Perpetual Maintenance Trust Fund established by city code for the cemetery.

Community Center

Council changed the change order approved at the last meeting for replacing the community center's roof. Replacing the roof is now expected to cost $259,300. This change corrected the previous action, in which inaccurate cost figures were used due to a miscommunication between the contractor and city staff. The renovation contract had included $79,000 for roof repairs; however, the contractor found more deterioration than expected. At the September 26 meeting, council agreed that the roof should be replaced rather than extensively patched.

The project has a $300,000 contingency allowance for unanticipated costs. However, staff cautioned that such a large increase in a single facet of the project could lead to the contingency fund not being sufficient to cover all unpleasant surprises.

To try to reduce costs, City Manager Daniel Hobbs recommended switching to a lower cost roof with a 10 year warranty (instead of the 20 year warranty of the better quality roof). However council unanimously agreed with Councilmember Judith Davis that such piecemeal patchwork would be "penny wise and pound foolish" and voted for the higher quality roof.

Bicycle Task Force

Council accepted two Bicycle Task Force reports for consideration at the November 14 regular meeting. The first recommends various steps for improving the safety of those crossing Kenilworth Avenue. The other discusses ways to accommodate mountain biking in the city owned woods between Ridge Road and the Baltimore Washington Parkway (Parcels 1 and 2).

A Shot at Stardom

Acting auditions for young people grades seven through 12 interested in performance opportunities at the Kennedy Center are being held at the Kennedy Center on Sunday, November 13, beginning at noon. Actors should report to the Opera House Stage Door for registration.

Bring a photo and resume to the audition. A prepared reading is not necessary for the audition but persons auditioning for the Traveling Young Players will be required to sing.

For further information, contact the Kennedy Center Education Department at (202) 416-8824.

Take Time to Help

For a minimum of two hours a week volunteers can contribute some light to the life of an isolated and/or disabled person living on low income. To these "forgotten" people in Prince Georges County, help with "chore assistance" housekeeping, shopping, etc.) is a great gift. The Volunteer Services program of the Prince Georges County Department of Social Services is sponsoring an orientation program for volunteers on the last Wednesday of the month at 3 p.m. Call 699-2800 for more information.

Fun at Goddard

The Goddard Space Flight Center's Visitor Center will be showing the video "Go For EVA" on Saturday, November 12, at 1 p.m. During the 14-minute video, the space shuttle astronauts discuss the reasons for wearing spacesuits during spacewalk missions, how spacesuits work, and what kinds of jobs astronauts perform while spacewalking. This video is suitable for all ages.

Also on Saturday from 7 to 9 p.m. a Star Watch. View the planets Jupiter, Mars and Venus, the moon and maybe even Comet Borrelly. Bring a telescope or use the Visitor Center's telescope. The Star Watch is held weather permitting.

The Visitor Center is on Soil Conservation Road. Call 286-8981 for information.

Council Hears BARC Plan For Four-Building Complex

by Diane Oberg

Possible changes at the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center (BARC) were the topic of two presentations to the Greenbelt City Council on October 24. Of most concern to council was the Department of Agriculture's proposal to build a four building office complex on BARC property. Also discussed were ongoing renovations at the research center.

USDA Headquarters

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has filed an environmental impact statement for its proposal to construct four two-story office buildings at BARC. This office complex would house roughly 1,500 employees with 900 parking spaces provided.

According to Senior Mechanical Engineer Michael Sozonov of USDA, the department has found there would be "no significant impact" on the environment if the complex were built on any of the three sites under consideration. A fourth site "C" was eliminated from consideration because it did not meet the "no significant impact" standard.

Proposed Sites

The study was prepared by GNM & Associates. Wilbert Zuylen, vice president of architecture for the firm, said that the three proposed sites were evaluated for "constructability." Site A, a 115 acre site on the western portion of BARC, is the "most desirable," said Zuylen. The site is across from the Greenbelt Metro Station between the CSX tracks and Rhode Island Avenue, between Sunnyside Avenue and the Capital Beltway.

The next most desirable site, according to Zuylen, is Site B, comprising 83 acres in the eastern portion of BARC. The original site identified at this location was 120 acres, but was reduced to exclude wetlands and forested areas. This site is located along Powder Mill Road at Soil Conservation Road.

The final site D was defined in the study as a 94 acre site located in the western portion of BARC at the intersection of Edmonston Road and Beaver Dam Road. The available acreage has now been reduced to roughly 45 acres, according to Zuylen. Part of the original site has been found to be on the "priorities list" for Superfund cleanup.

The department's specifications for the office site require a minimum of 30 acres for the buildings, parking lots and buffer areas.

Must it be BARC?

Councilmember Rodney Roberts pointed out the amount of land along the Beltway already zoned for office space and asked whether other sites were considered. However, Sozonov said that building on land not already federally owned would not meet the government's requirements. The purpose of this complex he said, is to wean USDA from leased space. Building on federal property will reduce the immediate costs, making construction affordable. Elimination of rent payments will save taxpayers money in the long run, Zuylen added.

Sozonov assured council that USDA realizes it needs to provide buffer zones, jogging/biking trails, and other amenities. However, it is still early in the planning process so no specific building plans are yet available.

Council Concerns

Mayor Antoinette Bram recapped the city's longstanding opposition to the extension of Kenilworth Avenue. "Given the traffic problems that already exist, how can you generate more traffic in this area?" she asked.

Roberts pressed Sozonov as to why such large parcels were being considered for a project alleged to require just 30 acres. "It will be hard to convince me," he said, "that you don't want to move more buildings there."

BARC Modernization

Dr. K. D. Murrell, Director of BARC, reported to council on renovation efforts currently under way. A new dairy barn recently opened, along with an "aerobic digester," to dispose of liquid and solid waste from the dairy operation. All but one of the old dairy barns will be removed.

The modernization effort will bring BARC facilities up to code. Four new buildings will be constructed, new greenhouses will be built, and Powder Mill Road will be upgraded between the Baltimore Washington Parkway and Route 197.

BARC is working with the Goddard Space Flight Center and Patuxent Wildlife Refuge to provide transportation between the three visitor centers and to coordinate their activities as much as possible.

A new master plan for BARC is being developed. Council heard a presentation by Scott Knudsen, representing the contractor responsible for the study. The target date for completing the plan is early 1996. Knudsen said that in developing the plan, their intent is to maintain the existing character of BARC.

Murrell said that many of the tenants currently occupying space at BARC are expected to leave, including the Food and Drug Administration and the Environmental Protection Agency. No other federal agencies are currently planning to move to BARC, other than the proposed USDA headquarters. There is a chance that the Museum of Natural History may relocate its collections and research operations, Murrell said.

In the past, BARC has not really been prepared to decide that a proposed use of the property is inappropriate and to document its objection, according to Director Murrell. The master plan will identify the mission of each area of BARC. If the agency is approached about a proposed use that is incompatible with the mission of the site(s) under consideration, the center's managers will have an approved Master Plan to support their objection. He assured the councilmembers that they will have ample opportunity for input.

Recycling Corner

Greenbelt's curbside recycling program is a County managed service. The County pays a collector $16.20 a year to stop by each house weekly and pick up your recyclables whether the resident participates or not. Recyclables now go to the County's Materials Recovery Facility in Capitol Heights for processing.

Only the following items are accepted: aluminum, steel and metal food cans, glass bottles and jars, plastic milk/water jugs, plastic soda bottles, plastic detergent bottles. Newspapers in plastic will not be accepted by the collectors. Place newspapers in brown paper bags or tie them with string. Loose newspapers may blow around the City creating a litter problem. Containers should be set-out by 7 a.m. on collection day.

Holiday Parade Kicks Off Needy Children Toy Drive

The merchants of Beltway Plaza Mall and the Greenbelt Lions Club have joined together to help raise new toys for needy children in Prince Georges County this holiday season. The goal for this year's toy drive is $15,000 in new toys that will be distributed through-out the County to families with children in need.

Last year the toy drive donated over $6,000 in new toys to over 250 families in Prince Georges County. The growing economic problem has left many families without jobs and during the holiday season children suffer even more.

Holiday Parade

To kick-off this event Beltway Plaza mall will be holding their third annual holiday parade at the mall on Saturday, November 19, at 10 a.m. This parade has been in the planning stage for many months and will feature over 20 different units. The marching band of High Point High School under the direction of Marshall White will lead the parade along with their drill team and will be the feature attraction besides, of course, Santa Claus. In addition this years focus will be toys that are found in the local retail stores. The grand marshal, Congressman Steny Hoyer, will highlight this event. Also there will be antique cars, ponies, costumed characters, police and fire department units from several areas, DC Army National Guard, First Army Band, Miss Greenbelt, Jr. Miss Greenbelt and Little Miss Greenbelt and lots more surprises in store for children of all ages.

'Light-up Christmas'

Following the parade there will be a "Light-up Christmas" ceremony at center court in the mall, when the lights of Beltway Plaza's custom designed Christmas decor will go on to announce the start of the Holiday Shopping Season. Richard Castaldi, of the Prince Georges County Council, will be on hand to help in this lighting ceremony and to read a Proclamation from Prince Georges County. Antoinette Bram, mayor, will also be delivering a Proclamation from the City of Greenbelt.

The Lions Club will have giant toy boxes at the mall as part of the Center Court display and at the new addition to the mall which connects Giant Food and several other new stores to the main mall and will feature an 18' Christmas tree with animated bears. The toy box will be part of this Christmas display. These colorful custom made toy boxes will remain a permanent part of the Christmas decor at Beltway Plaza and will remind the Holiday Shoppers that many in the community are in need. In addition the merchants of Beltway Plaza and Beltway Plaza Developers will be donating two new Lionel Train Sets to be used for a raffle to raise additional funds for the many worthy causes which the Lions Clubs of Prince Georges County support. As in the past the Merchants of Beltway Plaza and the Developer will be donating over $500 of new toys to the Toy Drive. The merchants at Beltway Plaza and the Lions Club of Greenbelt encourage every adult in the community to bring a new toy to Beltway Plaza to be placed in these toy boxes and to remind their children that Christmas is a giving time.

New Associates At RAM Practice

While in Scranton, she served as head athletic trainer for College Misericordia, Dallas, Pa. Last spring, she worked with the United States Olympic Committee as a volunteer athletic trainer at the indoor National Field Hockey Championships. She is a staff PT at RAM's Allsports Physical Therapy Center in Greenbelt.

Trotta, who lives in Rockville, is a physical therapist assistant in RAM's Greenbelt office. Before joining the practice, she was a PTA at Biloxi Regional Medical Center, where her duties included post partum exercise and back education programs.

Besides Greenbelt, RAM has offices in Annapolis, Hyattsville and Laurel.

Blood Drive Aides Needed

Realtors Toy Drive

Weichert Realtors, has launched its 16th Annual Toy Drive to collect toys for underprivileged children in the area. The Toy Drive will run through December 9. All of the company's offices in Virginia, Maryland, and Washington, D.C. are participating in the drive. New toys labeled with the age and sex the gift is intended for may be left at any Weichert sales office. The Greenbelt office is at 7701 Greenbelt Road.

"Over the last 15 years, we have collected hundreds of thousands of toys for boys and girls in our communities," said James Weichert, president. "Our goal is to bring some holiday joy to children who may not otherwise receive a gift at this special time of year."

After December 9, all toys collected will be distributed through local charities and organizations.

Some People Are Owed Tax Refunds

For the ninth straight year the Internal Revenue Service and the Maryland State Comptroller's Office are teaming up to locate area residents who are due tax refunds from their 1993 and prior year federal and state income tax returns.

According to Paul M. Harrington, IRS District Director for Maryland and the District of Columbia, 1-713 federal refund checks, totalling nearly one million dollars were returned by the postal service marked undeliverable. Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein noted that his office has 2,707 state refund checks, totalling $662,621 which were returned by the postal service marked undeliverable.

Harrington said, "these taxpayers may have moved or changed their last names during the year and did not notify the IRS or the State of Maryland, or the address on the returns may simply have been illegible." When a refund is returned by the post office, the two agencies attempt to find the taxpayer and deliver the check, but there are usually some who cannot be found.

Anyone who is expecting a 1993 or prior year federal refund check, and who has not already contacted the IRS, should call (800) 829-1040. For Maryland state refund inquiries taxpayers should call (410) 974-3701, or toll free (800) 218-8160.

Greenbelt residents who are owed Maryland state tax refunds are: Stephen M. and Judy P. Lotspeich, Sanjath Sulkunte, George W. Dunning, Robin N. Nguyen, Ernest Phillips, John P. Coyne, Jr., Joy O. Babalola, Jae Bong Lee, Minnie J. Allen Anthony D. Molden, Devin J. Kennedy, Gary A. Cousin and Charlotte M. Christensen, Victor B. Dewindt, Jr. and Dewind T. Dewindt, Lilah A. Connelly, Shannon M. Rice, Regina D. Pace, and Labastida Esperanza Guzman.

Local Firm Aids

Disabled Students

Catherine T. Reed Elementary School and a local consulting firm based in Greenbelt kicked off a partnership on Thursday, November 3, with the installation of a personal computer equipped with a voice recognition system for the school's orthopedic wing. The new system will enable students, such as those with Cerebral Palsy, who cannot easily manipulate the keyboard, to speak to the computer rather than use traditional keyboards for data entry.

The recently passed Americans with Disabilities Act mandates that schools provide educational opportunities for children with disabilities. The firm will also provide ongoing software, hardware, training and technical assistance. It will also look at possibilities of expanding the computer program to other schools.

"FEATURING JOE'S TIP OF THE WEEK"

Hello Again!

PART 1

The time of the year dictates quite a bit on just how good your automobile is going to perform. Most of the time we as owners do have some control on just how good our vehicles perform.

Some areas we do not!

The Washington DC area is considered a high contamination area due to the vehicle population and congestion; the quality of air is just not clean enough. Due to our geographical area and the temperature changes, we pollute the highest levels of contamination in the winter months. This brings us to the "Winter Blend Of Gasoline" commonly known as "OXYGENATED GASOLINE." You probably have noticed the difference in the last couple of weeks of the price of gasoline and a distinct smell of the gasoline, somewhat different than it smelled in the warmer months.

Oxygenated Gasoline is methyl tertiary butyl ether (MTBE for short). It is added to reduce carbon monoxide contamination, (some states only require .20% oxygen by weight.) But any how we have to deal with it for the next couple of months. Next week I'll inform you just how good it reduces contamination, and some mechanical opinions and internal engine conditions.

Till Next Week!!

THINK PREVENTIVE MAINTENANCE!! JOE!

Among the live entertainment at the New Deal Cafe's open house on Saturday, November 5, were Kenny Reed, Eric Schwartz and Larry Good playing contemporary jazz.

The open house was held in order to generate interest in opening an actual coffee house/cafe in the Greenbelt Center.

New Deal Cafe in Center: Will It Become Reality?

by Alex Barnes (474-5310)

"Hey! Did you hear about the new coffee house that just opened in the Center? Where the Mellon Bank used to be? It's called the New Deal Cafe. They have coffee, cider, bagels, muffins, books, live music, and more. What a great place! Just what Greenbelt has needed."

Well, not quite. In actuality, the coffee house/cafe has not opened, and may never open. But that is the gist of what many people were saying on Saturday, November 5, at the New Deal Cafe's open house. It was a one day event sponsored by the New Deal Cafe Committee, a group of Greenbelt's interested in opening such a place in the Center.

The purpose of the open house, was to determine if there is sufficient interest to open a coffee house/cafe in Greenbelt as a not-for-profit co-op. Judging from Saturday's turnout, there is plenty. The event exceeded the committee's expectations. By the end of the day, about a thousand people had stopped by. There were never fewer than 20 people in the cafe; and during the evening, when the live jazz was playing, the joint was packed.

The coffee, donated by Wilkins, was served by members of the New Deal Cafe Committee. The food (muffins, cookies, scones, breads, cheesecake, etc.) was baked by the members. (Let me tell you, there are some mighty fine bakers in Greenbelt.) Bagels were donated by the University of Maryland Food Co-op. All of the food and drink was served free, although donations were accepted.

More importantly, people were asked to fill out a survey in order to determine what people wanted from the Cafe, and who were willing to become members. Members provide financial support to help start the cafe. Money, as you might suspect, is one of the main hurdles to overcome in starting the coffee house/cafe. Forming the cafe as a co-operative was seen as a way to obtain the necessary start-up capital. In addition, the customers, as members of the co-op, would

"Streetcar" Performed for Deaf, Others

Sign Rise Cultural Arts will present a new production of "A Streetcar Named Desire" at the Publick Playhouse in Cheverly on Friday, Nov. 11 and Saturday, Nov. 12. The production will be in sign language and voice, using a cast of deaf, hard of hearing, and hearing performers. Several members of the cast are veterans of the Tony Award-winning National Theatre of the Deaf.

SignRise is a regional theater company which offers performances in sign language and voice narration for deaf, hard of hearing, and hearing audiences in the Baltimore-Washington area, using professional performers.

For additional information and to order tickets, call 1-800-735-2258, extension 301-585-2761.

have control over the character of the cafe.

So when will the New Deal Cafe open? First, the surveys will be tallied and a potential membership list formed. Then membership fees will be set and a restaurant plan developed. Meetings will be held in order to negotiate the details. For now, the old Mellon Bank space is once again empty. The chairs and tables have been returned to the volunteers who loaned them. The few left-overs were divided up among the clean-up crew. And the New Deal Cafe is once again a dream, but much closer to reality than before.

If you are interested in joining the New Deal Cafe Committee, but did not fill out a survey, call Alan Turnbull at 982-6460.

Memorial

"Whenever someone has a gun, you stay away. You want to grow old. How do you grow old? You stay away from guns." C.J.'s grandmother, Dorothy Brown, told the children to "Love thy neighbor as thy self. We've got to love each other."

C.J.'s teammates on the Boys and Girls Club football team were present in uniform, having just played a game. Their coach, C.L. Coley, told the people gathered that a football play would be renamed. "The 22 fly will now be the 32 fly in memory of C.J.," he said.

The memorial tree resulted from the suggestion of a neighbor to the Browns, Moira Kelly, in a letter to the city council shortly after the tragic incident. Kelly was at the ceremony and read a part of her letter. "A memorial tree and marker at this site will serve as a silent reminder to all the people in the area of this terrible loss of an innocent, promising life, and help thwart the complacency that has occurred in the last few years regarding the violence which occurs all around us in Prince Georges County. My hope is that a memorial will remind the residents of Greenbelt that everyone must be involved in their communities to assure safety to all of us."

Resource Coordinator

A volunteer Resource Coordinator is needed at the PG Department of Social Services. Duties include coordinating the in-house pantry and clothing unit, assisting with soliciting donations and resources for the Family Emergency Shelter. Hours are flexible.

For more information contact the Prince Georges Voluntary Action Center at 699-2800.

T'ai Chi Seminar

Prince Georges Hospital Center will sponsor a free seminar on "An Introduction to T'ai Chi" on Tuesday, November 15, at 7 p.m., in the Deitz Memorial Auditorium. For information, registration, or directions, call the office of public affairs at 618-3858.

Great American Smokeout at PGCC

Smokers who want to leave the pack behind may receive free survival kits, tips for quitting and other information at the annual Great American Smokeout exhibit at Prince Georges Community College.

The exhibit will be on display in Room 145 of Bladen Hall on Wednesday, Nov. 16 from 2 to 7:30 p.m. and in the Largo Student Center lobby on Thursday, Nov. 17 from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The Great American Smokeout sponsored by the American Cancer Society, encourages smokers to give up the habit for 24 hours. Non-smokers can get into the act by adopting a smoker for the day, supporting that person throughout the Smokeout with phone calls, healthy munchies and lots of praise.

For more information, call (301) 322-0845.

City Notes

Leaf collection and clearing leaves out of gutters has begun. Public Works crews recently began renovation of Braden Field. Warning track bluestone will be replaced, old infield dirt will be removed, and a sand-silt drainage system installed on the infield. Also, construction continued at the police gun range with the erection of framing for the gun range tower.

The Youth Center benefited from two donations. Crews picked up a piano from 39 Lakeside Dr. and tables and chairs from Green Ridge House.

On the recycling front, Recycling Coordinator Tracy Vincent obtained 20 yellow half-size recycling buckets—used for small households—free from the city of Takoma Park. Call 474-8308. Containers were placed at polling places to collect and recycle campaign literature on Election Day.

Regular activities included preparing four soccer fields for weekend league play, blacktopping asphalt patches on Ridge Road and Southway, and mulching and preparing flower beds at various locations.

Volunteers Guard Statue From Halloween Tricks

by Eileen Peterson

It wasn't stormy or brutally cold this year, but there must have been fleeting thoughts of warm beds in the minds of the hardy volunteers huddled around the Mother and Child statue over the Halloween weekend.

This second annual guarding of the statue drew at least 28 citizens to give a minimum of two hours vigilance to keep little (and big) goblins from defacing Lenore Thomas's sculpture in Roosevelt Center.

Weather wear and tear, and the "tricks" often played on the now 55-year-old figures have been hard on the statue, and last year Barbara Simon, chair of the City's Arts Advisory Committee, organized a nighttime watch.

Concerned members of the Greenbelt Visual Arts Coalition, the Greenbriar-Glen Oaks Mobile Crime Watch, the Greenbelt Museum Board, the Committee to Save the Green Belt, the Crime Prevention Committee and the Arts Advisory Group joined to make sure the sculpture was protected. The recent cleaning has made the surface more porous, and until it is given a coating the statue will remain in a vulnerable state.

Sitting in a semi-circle in front of the statue, the volunteers, some in costume, told ghost stories in the warm glow of orange candles on the ground. Thanks to donations from the 7-11 store and the use of the nearby Greenbelt Arts Center facilities, there were hot drinks and doughnuts to fortify cold bodies. The City Recreation Department loaned chairs, and Greenbelt Video provided storage for the three nights.

A Save the Statue Restoration Fund pumpkin filled with donations (totalling $35—a special thanks to Dracula), brought the Fund's total to $75. Fund-raisers in the future, and possible city allocations, will pay for the ongoing restoration and protection of the sculpture.

Greenbelt CARES

Teresa Smithson attended a meeting of the Youth Violence Prevention Team on October 25. Violence prevention efforts for Prince Georges county were discussed. The meeting closed with a final revision of the by-laws.

An average of 29 families a week participated in regular, scheduled counseling during October. 63 individuals were involved, 40% of them children and youth under 18 years of age. Weekly tutoring sessions were held in a wide variety of subjects including math, reading, history and the sciences. 63 students participated this month.

Judye Hering held the first floor's workshop of the 1994-95 academic year on Saturday, October 15 in the Municipal Building. Discussion focused on intervention and interaction: homework, Back-To-School Night, having a relationship with the teacher and parent, and how to be an effective tutor. Six tutors attended the workshop.

On Monday of this week, Teresa Smithson and Carol Leventhal attended a day-long conference entitled Suicide the Violence Within: A Community Responds, held at the Baltimore Washington International Airport Marriott Hotel. One conference objective was to focus on cultural diversity and its effect on suicide. Carol participated in a Council of Governments sponsored workshop on Wednesday entitled Preventing Violence: Developing Regional Human Service Approaches.

Teresa Smithson and Carolyn Rodner, guidance counselor at Springhill Lake Elementary, began group counseling on Wednesday, October 19 with fourth grade students from the school's Black Male Achievement program.

1995 Budget and Resales Discussed by GHI Board

by Mary Moien

The main topic of discussion at the October 20 Greenbelt Homes, Inc. board meeting was to be the final section of the 1995 proposed budget. That section includes the maintenance and improvement expenses. Also on the agenda were a recommendation from the Ad Hoc Resales Committee and a discussion of the applicability of the Lead Poison Prevention Program Act to GHI homes. The discussion of budget was not completed at the meeting and a special meeting was called for October 27 and is also summarized in this article.

Ad Hoc Resales Committee

A written request was made to the board by the Ad Hoc Resales Committee to review two recommendations. The first recommendation was to authorize management to explore contracting out all inspections related to the sale of GHI homes. The reasons for this recommendation were the possibility of cost savings; the use of an industry-approved standard of inspection; and the elimination of misunderstandings between GHI and homeowners. A second recommendation was to have GHI maintain a complete list of homes for sale whether by owner or through a realtor. This list would be available to prospective buyers. A decision on these recommendations was deferred by the board.

Lead Poison Prevention

At the request of GHI, State Senator Leo Green had asked the Maryland Office of the Attorney General for an interpretation of the Lead Poison Prevention Program Act as it may relate to cooperative housing. The provisions of this act are applicable to rental homes and units but not owner-occupied housing. It was the opinion of the Office of the Attorney General that cooperative housing would be treated the same as an owner-occupied home. However, the situation where a unit is sublet is not clear. In this situation the unit would no longer be owner occupied and the property would be subject to the act. It is unclear whether GHI, the member, or both would be responsible. A long discussion followed, however no decisions were reached.

One member questioned whether there was lead in the bathtubs of the homes. There was concern that children playing in the bath water, and perhaps ingesting some, could be subject to lead poisoning. Jay Freedman, Director of Technical Services had been asked to investigate this issue. At the October 27 meeting he reported informally that his investigation produced information that no lead is found in or leached from cast iron tubs. He is preparing a written response to the board.

1995 Proposed Budget

At these two meetings the sections of the budget related to maintenance and improvement were discussed in extreme detail. The board has been operating under a mandate to keep annual increases to a minimum. For 1994, after a major membership meeting, the budget remained at the same expenditure level as in 1993. The proposed budget for 1995 calls for an average total increase of 1.5% for all homes. For frame homes, this represents a 2.5% increase and for the larger homes a 1.9% increase. The masonry homes would have no increase in monthly charges.

What follows is a sampling of the detailed discussions held. None was followed by a change to the budget. Actual budget changes will be proposed at a later meeting. Under maintenance carried out by contract, the board discussed tree trimming and removal ($50,000) and bathtub reglazing ($13,700) which the director of maintenance indicates is the amount needed to cover the very worst cases. When pest extermination was discussed, board members indicated that they felt, from personal experience, the contractor was not following procedures of letting units know that other units in the row were being treated. Director Alan Turnbull suggested training a GHI staff person in Integrated Pest Management or to contract with a business that used this technique.

With most sections of the budget, the first question asked was how much GHI had spent to date this year or had budgeted for 1994. These figures are not shown in the detail of the 1995 proposed budget. GHI Treasurer Vonda Henry indicated that it is impossible to understand the 1995 figures without the 1994 data. Although management indicated that this type of detail was very time consuming to produce, it was requested to provide as much as possible prior to the next meeting.

Former director and long-time member Nat Shinderman and current audit committee member Ray Stevens expressed concern that the budget is confusing monies spent from current sources with that which is budgeted under "replacement reserves." The issue surfaced when Shinderman questioned whether porch roof replacement was covered under replacement reserves. It is but the budget makes it appear that it is coming out of current funds. It was agreed that this is a confusing issue and that the GHI Finance Committee is studying it.

Approximately $9,000 is budgeted toward the covering of masonry home trim elements with aluminum and vinyl. This includes the covering of the porch post with a vinyl cover that has a Greek temple look. Turnbull stated that he does not approve of covering the original architectural features and this post covering is especially bad. Management indicated that they have searched widely for a more appropriate cover, but in vain. Management also discussed the problems that they had encountered in trying to keep the post painted and looking presentable.
